DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, Claims 1-9, drawn to a method for detecting viral protein-protein interactions.

Group II, Claims 10-13, drawn to a peptide detected by the method of claim 1, and a pharmaceutical composition.

Group III, Claim 14, drawn to a method for detecting specific viral protein epitopes in a biological sample.

Group IV, Claim 15, drawn to an immunogenic composition comprising at least one epitope that elicits a protective response against infection

Group V, Claims 16-17, drawn to a peptide detected by the method of claim 14 and a composition.

Art Unit: 1639

Group VI, Claim 18, drawn to a method for delivering in vivo expression vector encoding the peptide of claim 16 to an individual.

Group VII, claim 19, drawn to a method of diagnosing a viral infection in a biological sample.

Group VIII, Claim 20, drawn to a method of diagnosing a viral infection in a biological sample.

Group IX, Claim 21, drawn to a diagnostic kit.

The inventions listed as Groups I to IX do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: the special technical feature of Group I is the two hybrid screening assay using a library randomly generated genomic DNA fragments in a DNA-binding domain vector and a randomly generated viral DNA fragments in an activation domain vector. However, the special technical feature of Group is well known in the art. See Bartel et al, Nature Genetics, vol. 12, January 1996, pages 72-77 (cited by applicants in the PTO 1449). Bartel et al teach a method for detecting bacteriophage T7 protein-protein interactions wherein libraries of randomly generated fragments of T7 DNA cloned into DNA-domain and activating domain vectors, which are assayed by two -hybrid screening assay. Thus, the invention in this application lacks unity.

This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

The species are as follows:

A) specific virus libraries;

Art Unit: 1639

B) libraries from claim 5;

C) protein in claim 7;

Applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

The following claim(s) are generic: 1, 6 and 10-21.

The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: the different libraries and peptides are structurally and functionally distinct from each other, thus species election is proper.

Art Unit: 1639

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
